

The Journal of the Irish Society for the Academic Study of Religions (JISASR) is now open for submissions for Volume 3 and beyond.

JISASR is published by the Irish Society for the Academic Study of Religions in association with the Study of Religions Department at University College Cork. It is an international peer reviewed journal and publishes papers in all areas of the academic study of religions including empirical, ethnographic, textual and theoretical studies of religions in diverse political, social and cultural settings, globally and in Ireland. The journal is strictly non-confessional in approach and promotes academic excellence in the study of religions. The journal welcomes papers in any area of the academic study of religions from scholars worldwide. As an important part of its mission, the journal encourages submissions from scholars based in the island of Ireland and papers concerned with religions in Ireland, thus offering a forum for critical reflection on religion in contemporary Ireland and the study of religions in the Irish academy.

If you are interested in submitting an article for consideration for one of our forthcoming issues, please contact the editorial team at jisasr.journal@gmail.com