3-4 JUNE 2015

HUMANITY MANSE, OLD ABERDEEN

This colloquium aims to examine the role played by religion and religious belief in motivating, shaping, and informing the Scottish experience of exile, empire, and emigration, and the creation, maintenance, or attenuation of Scottish identity overseas. Papers are welcomed on all aspects of the Scottish religious experience outwith Britain (but including Ireland) from 1603 to the modern period.

Speakers Include:

John MacKenzie (University of Lancaster)

Ned Landsman (Stony Brook University, USA)

Joseph Sramek (Southern Illinois University, USA)

Scott Spurlock (University of Glasgow)

Esther Breitenbach (University of Edinburgh)

Andrew Mackillop (University of Aberdeen)

Hilary M. Carey (University of Bristol)

Kirsteen Mackenzie (University of Aberdeen)
