

Reading the World: Science and Sacred Texts

28 - 30 April 2017

Madingley Hall, Cambridge

How do people read the Bible and Qur'an in a scientific age?

How do the scriptures relate to scientific issues?

Historically, how have the Abrahamic religions negotiated between science and sacred texts?

This weekend course will explore these questions from historical, theological and sociological perspectives.

Open to all.

www.faraday-institute.org

Tel. 01223 741281

