

Women & Gender in the Bible and the Ancient World Conference 2019

Theology & Religious Studies at the University of Glasgow are delighted to host a one-day conference on "Women & Gender in the Bible and the Ancient World" on March 29th, 2019.

Scholars in areas including biblical studies, religion, classics, and other disciplines will gather together to explore constructs of women, gender and sex in the Bible and the ancient world across a myriad of themes including LGBTQ+ perspectives on biblical material, motherhood, law and language, violence, voices and the cultural afterlives of women in the Bible.

Our programme of speakers is available to see here: <https://womeninthebible4112.wordpress.com/speakers-titles/>

REGISTRATION

We want this conference to be as accessible and open to as many people as possible, so we have implemented a "Pay-What-You-Can" model for registration fees. Simply decide the amount of money you are able to pay as a registration fee, and pay through the "donate" button which appears on the tickets page.

Minimum donation is £1.00; Average day-conference fee (as guide): £20.00.

Registration fee (regardless of amount) includes all refreshments and lunch on the day.

If you have any questions, please contact Zanne.Domoney-Lyttle@Glasgow.ac.uk, or visit: womeninthebible4112.wordpress.com.